Tour of the Long Island Native Plant Initiative.

Learn about native plant propagation by taking this tour. The LINPI is a non-profit organization whose mission is to protect the heritage of native plant populations by establishing commercial sources of native plant material for use in nursery, landscaping and habitat restoration activities. A visit to the greenhouse, founder plots, a meadow, and a rain garden are planned. Suitable footwear is advised for walking on uneven surfaces. Location: Sisters of St. Joseph, 1725 Brentwood Road, Brentwood, NY

First Ever FGCNYS Photo Exhibition - "Detective Work-Seeing Nature with New Eyes"

Judges Council "Photo 101" - how we utilize and promote photography to enhance our own creativity and promote the goals of NGC. Bobby and Lovejoy Duryea will teach you in a light-hearted vein how to use your phone (or camera) to take great flower photographs.

"Gardening Is Murder"

A talk by Neal Sanders

Why is much gardening information on the internet so awful? Why is it impossible to do just one thing in the garden? Why should you never compute the value of your labor when you garden? These are the questions that keep Neal Sanders awake at night. As the spouse of an avid gardener with no 'real' responsibilities other than to dig holes and move rocks, Neal has lots of time to observe gardeners and their foibles.

Neal is the author of thirteen mysteries, seven of which involve horticulture and several of those which use garden club settings. He writes the popular 'The Principal Undergardener' blog, which addresses gardening as a non-gardener who loves gardens. His talk is adapted from those essays

Darcie Garcia, AIFD, CFD

As a 25 year veteran of the floral industry, Darcie is the Head Designer at RichMar florist in Allentown, PA. In 2015 she successfully completed the Professional Floral Design Evaluation and was invited to join the prestigious American Institute of Floral Designers and for the last decade, has participated on both award and winning exhibits at the Philadelphia Flower Show and on the Designer Studio Stage at that event.

"Talkin' Trash with Larry Swanson"

Larry Swanson is an associate dean and former interim dean of the School of Marine and Atmospheric Sciences and the Director of the Waste Reduction and Management Institute. He is a physical oceanographer, working primarily on marine pollution issues in the coastal ocean. Prior to coming to Stony Brook University in 1987, he led several large environmental programs within the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration and was a commanding officer on two NOAA research vessels.
